DETOX AND WITHDRAWAL MANAGEMENT

Our medically assisted detoxification program is the first step in addiction treatment for most. By mitigating addiction cravings and freeing the body from the physical bonds of addiction, detox allows for a smooth transition into the next phase of recovery.

Before beginning detox, clients receive a medical evaluation. This allows our team to create a personalized program that ensures clients are slowly weaned off drugs and alcohol safely and comfortably. Our counselors and medical providers walk alongside their patients throughout the process, providing necessary emotional, spiritual, and physical support, in addition to 24-hour nursing support.

ADDICTION TREATMENT

Addiction treatment involves various evidence-based therapies that provide clients with the skills required to maintain their sobriety and improve their mental health issues. We want to give them the skills needed to succeed, both during their time at our residential treatment center and beyond.

Once accepted into our community, our medical team assesses each patient; this includes physical and mental health evaluations. This approach ensures that patients will receive the most thorough and comprehensive care possible.
